Recognizing Reach Out and Read

Whereas, Reach Out and Read is a national program launched to promote early literacy and school readiness, with Scholastic Books providing free books and partnering with medical providers to distribute them to pediatric patients;

Whereas, the program was first adopted in Tippecanoe County in 2004 by James Bien, M.D.;

Whereas six local healthcare facilities now prescribe books during well child checks through this program: Franciscan Physician Network, Froberg Pediatric Center, Indiana University Health Arnett Pediatrics, Indiana University Health Arnett Family Practice, Pediatric Associates of Lafayette, and Riggs Community Health Center;

Whereas nearly 60,000 books have been distributed locally under this program;

Whereas, community residents also donate new and gently used books to provide reading materials for siblings;

Whereas, Tippecanoe County is a community committed to education;

Now, therefore, the Tippecanoe County Commission, City of Lafayette and City of West Lafayette hereby proclaim their gratitude to the Reach Out and Read Participants on their 10th anniversary of involvement.

BUILDING COMMISSION – Ken Brown & Mike Wolf
Continuation of Unsafe Structure Public Hearing for 9028 Yorktown St., Stockwell, IN Building Commissioner Brown provided an update of Joe Wilbur's roofing project at 9028 Yorktown Street in Stockwell, saying Mike Wolf visited the location and took pictures last Friday. Refuse was still piled around the property and no progress had been made. Today, Mr. Wilbur said he worked on the project over the weekend and has pictures on his phone showing the recent progress. The gable end and the debris will be cleaned up today; the project will be finished this month. Commissioner Murtaugh said he thought the project was to be completed by today. Mr. Wilbur said he had issues at his regular job and worked the last two weekends. His helpers have also worked long hours on their regular jobs and been unavailable to help on the project; the remaining work on the project takes two people. Commissioner Murtaugh asked Mr. Wilbur if he was given another 30 days, could he guarantee the project would be finished. Commissioner Byers said the Commissioners have been very lenient. Mr. Wilbur said all material is in the building; he just needs a helper.

- Commissioner Murtaugh moved to continue the hearing until the first meeting in September, second by Commissioner Byers; motion carried. The hearing is continued to September 2, 2014.

Acceptance of Bids for Demolition of 6973 Main St, West Point, IN Building Commission Inspector Wolf said he has two bids for the demolition of the property at 6973 Main Street in West Point. The statement he made at the previous meeting regarding the property being sold at the September Sheriff Sale was incorrect; the property will be sold at the September Tax Sale. Attorney Masson said if the buildings are torn down prior to the Tax Sale, a lien would be placed on the property.

Attorney Masson opened the bids.

DEMOLITION BID: 6973 Main St., West Point, IN
BIDDER	BID
Cheeseman, Inc., P.O. Box 10, West Point, IN 47992	$17,075.00
Osborn Farm, 8536 E 1000 S, Clarks Hill, IN 47930	$ 5,800.00

Attorney Masson said the bids can be accepted now if the Building Commissioner doesn't need to review.

- Commissioner Murtaugh moved to approve the bid submitted by Osborn Farm for $5,800 as presented, second by Commissioner Byers; motion carried.

AREA PLAN – Sallie Fahey
Z-2580 Tippecanoe Development (GB to R1B), ORDINANCE 2014-11-CM
Petitioner is requesting rezoning of 7.779 acres for a proposed 30 lot residential subdivision, located on the west side of Klondike Road, north of Lindberg, Wabash 10 (SE) 23-5

- Commissioner Murtaugh moved to hear Ordinance 2014-11-CM, second by Commissioner Byers.

Dan Teder, Attorney with Reiling, Teder, and Schrier stated he represents the petitioner. The request is for a rezone from GB to R1B of 7.779 acres on the west side of Klondike, just north of Lindberg. A favorable staff report and staff recommendation was received along with a unanimous yes votes from Area Plan for approval. The owner has been trying to sell the property for approximately ten years. A subdivision petition was filed, consisting of approximately 30 lots for the site. The lots will range from 6,100 to 14,000 square feet and there will be one entrance from Klondike. The R1B zoning has been successful in the area and surrounds the property of the petitioner. Commercial does not work in the area; residential seems to be appropriate. Attorney Teder said they are going through the subdivision process and have to meet all the standards of the subdivision ordinance as well as receive drainage approval.
He requested approval of the rezone.

Commissioner Byers asked for clarification that there would only be one entrance. Attorney Teder said yes, one entrance is what County Highway wanted. It's a hammerhead turnaround at the location, and he believes it is an exit for emergency purposes only.

President Knochel invited public comment in favor of or opposed to the rezone. There were none.

Auditor Chief Deputy Fay recorded the vote.

Z-2573 Derek S.A. Chisholm (R1 to A), ORDINANCE 2014-12-CM
Petitioner is requesting rezoning of 2.56 acres located at 2801 W 500 N, a quarter mile west of Morehouse Road, on the south side of CR 500 N, Wabash 35 (NW) 24-5

- Commissioner Murtaugh moved to hear Ordinance 2014-12-CM, second by Commissioner Byers.

Attorney Dan Teder stated he represents the petitioner, Derek Chisholm. The Chisholm family is present. The request is for a rezone from R1 to A consisting of 2.56 acres on the south side of CR 500 N. A favorable staff report and recommendation was received along with an inconclusive Area Plan vote. The petitioner currently has his business on South Street, restoring antique and classic cars. He has lived at the CR 500 N property for approximately eleven years, is widowed and has four children. Mr. Chisholm has two sons with special needs driving him to downsize and move the business to his home. The north side of CR 500 N is zoned Agriculture, the south side is zoned R1 with heavily wooded lots. There is a large farm to the north of property. The south view from Mr. Chisholm's property is ten to twenty acres of wooded area, presenting no impact on the property to the south. His property consists of a house, a garage, a creek, and the entrance from CR 500 N. Referring to the maps which were given to the Commissioners, Attorney Teder said the garage is approximately 100' from the property line. There are four adjacent houses to the south which are approximately 150' from the property line.

Three to four cars will be worked on per week; all work will be inside. He expects to have one customer per day and the hours will be 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. There will be one security light and no vehicles will be stored outside. The flood plain is about 1000' from the site. All the chemicals are processed in a recycling machine that turns liquid waste into a clean paint thinner and disposable solid; there are no environmental issues. Looking at the Unified Zoning Ordinance, the definition of Rural Home Occupation says "all work, materials, equipment, unlicensed and inoperative vehicles shall be stored inside"; Mr. Chisholm intends to do that. He received a building permit for his house approximately eleven years ago and received a building permit for the first garage about four years ago. The second garage building permit was acquired in 2013. He was informed by his realtor the property was zoned agriculture; the petition was filed immediately when he discovered it was zoned R1.

The area is heavily wooded, with no impact to the neighbor to the north and minimum impact on the four properties to the south; in his opinion. There is no flood plain, environmental, signage, or noise issues. All work will be inside and there will be no cars outside. Attorney Teder said it is a fairly simple case - his client only wants to work on and restore classic cars, teaching the trade to his sons. He asks the Commissioners for approval of the request.

President Knochel invited public comment in favor of the Ordinance. Attorney Masson informed the public to sign in with their name and address when they approach the podium. He said there is a five minute limit for their presentation and asked that they not duplicate what has been said previously.

Brett Young – 3319 South St, Lafayette – Mr. Young stated he is a local business owner, neighboring Mr. Chisholm's current location. He knows Derek as a person is very congenial and is willing to work within the rules and regulations. There has been some pictures and concern about vehicles left on the property at the current business on South Street; 90% of those vehicles are not Mr. Chisholm's or his customers, they belong to other area business owners like himself. In addition, the South Street location allows the vehicles to be outside. Derek is trying to downsize and take care of his family. His workload should be cut in half and it will also cut down on traffic. Mr. Young said he has worked around the automotive industry for his entire life and there are a few things you have to be careful with; however, the chemical pollutants are the same as people have in their home or garage – paints, thinners, weed killer, etc. Mr. Chisholm has a very expensive recycling system; there should not be any concerns of the environment. All chemicals go through the recycling system; there is no liquid waste. The fumes are captured by a filtration system in a paint booth and painting will not happen every day. A full restoration of a classic car could take several months or even one to two years to complete, each car is time consuming and different.

Victor Joyner – 1108 Berkley, Lafayette – Mr. Joyner stated he previously worked for the County and during that time he also worked with Mr. Chisholm at the Hot Rod shop. Mr. Chisholm's operation is small; people have the misconception that it will be a production shop. Mr. Joyner is also a local business owner and has counseled and assisted Derek with disposal of the hazardous material and maintaining compliance with IDEM and EPA regulations. The operation is very clean, there is no waste put into the water or allowed to contaminate the ground. He completely supports Mr. Chisholm's request.

Gene Reed – 100 Coldbrook Dr, Lafayette – Mr. Reed said Mr. Chisholm allowed him to work in his shop and assist with rebuilding his car. He was in the shop almost every day for six months. During that time he never saw Mr. Chisholm infringe on anyone's rights or mistreat anyone. He is a good man and is a very family oriented person who will do what he says he will do. He will not do anything to hurt his neighbors or contaminate his own property. During the time he was in the shop, he became very good friends with Mr. Chisholm. What he is trying to do is have a job at home where he can take care of his family and earn a living. Mr. Reed said he doesn't come to the Commissioner meetings often but he believes what Mr. Chisholm is doing will be done correctly.

President Knochel invited public comment in opposition to the Ordinance.

Orlo Shoup – 4822 Homewood Dr, West Lafayette – Mr. Shoup stated he lives partially behind the proposed rezone. He doesn't believe there should be potential businesses zoned south of CR 500 N – it has been R1 for some time and changing it to A for agriculture to allow any business is the not the right way to go. It will impact his property value and present the potential for a future business in the vacant lot next to Mr. Chisholm. He disagrees with the proposed rezone.

Coleen Robbins – 7903 W 550 S, Delphi – Ms. Robbins presented slides and said she is speaking on behalf of her mother, Connie Newell who is a 50 year resident of the Homewood Addition. Her mother is one of the original builders of the subdivision, which was established in the early 1960's. The area is heavily wooded and consists of rolling hills. Many of the original occupants purchased two or three lots to maintain the natural setting. The area is unique; it is five minutes from Purdue, Harrison High School, Menards, and the new Meijer while maintaining an isolated existence with a stream and deer in the backyard. These neighborhoods are rapidly dwindling. We would like to see the character of the neighborhood remain as is. Most of the property owners have built in the back of their property to retain a large yard. Most home buyers for the area are willing to accept well water and septic tanks to live in a quiet area with mature trees close to the amenities of civilization. The map with the original report shows an isolated property shadowed by some R1 but very close to A zoning; the map was misleading because it is not detailed and does not show the property actually touches six residential lots. The property across from Mr. Chisholm's property is zoned A and has been wooded for the fifty years her mother has owned it; currently it is planted in pine trees. Rezoning from residential to agriculture sounds very "back to nature" but not when the sole purpose is to allow an automotive business to exist amid a well-established neighborhood. During the recent Channel 18 interview Mr. Chisholm gave following the Area Plan Commission (APC) meeting in July he stated he has residents closer to his current business on South Street than the neighbors on CR 500 N. His current business is in an urban setting where homeowners expect large traffic volume, noise, and exhaust from city streets. We oppose the rezoning; this is and has been a residential area for over 50 years. Ms. Robbins said the Commissioners have a copy of the petition which was circulated at the APC meeting in July. Every homeowner approached signed the petition. Do they not have rights? We feel the Commissioners are establishing a dangerous precedent by zoning the land back to agriculture. Even if Mr. Chisholm is the responsible man he is represented to be, what will happen when he sells his property? Will the next man be so considerate? What about the 2.5 acres of undeveloped land to the east? Could that property owner come through with another rezoning request next year? This is not the place for a business of this kind. By allowing the rezoning request, this neighborhood will be destroyed forever. Most of the neighborhood is on a community well which is downstream from the proposed business. Ms. Robbins asked the Commissioners to please take that into consideration.

Commissioner Byers said it appears the main concern is pollution and chemical solutions. Monsanto is located just west of the subdivision and they are spraying the fields with test chemicals at different times. He assumes they are being a good neighbor and there is no worry about pollutants. The Homewood Addition well is downstream from Monsanto and there are no problems. He drove by the property Saturday and questions why there is opposition for Mr. Chisholm's business when Monsanto is spraying chemicals upstream.

Kim Newell – 4840 Homewood Dr, West Lafayette – Ms. Newell said Coleen Robbins is her sister and she is concerned about Monsanto but doesn't feel they can fight that issue. The issue at hand is if the proposed rezone should be allowed. As individuals, letters have been sent, petitions have been signed, and we have shown up at the meetings; there is not one person driving this opposition. The petition was taken to the houses most closely affected by the rezone; not one person thought it was a good idea. Most thought of the danger to the well water, those living on CR 500 N said more traffic aggravates the already busy road. She is not against working from home, she has an upholstery business in her home which she started in her garage 15 years ago while caring for her four children. She objects to the type of business; an auto body painting business requires the use of toxic chemicals, sprays, liquids, and grinders which throw particles into the air and through the exhaust fans. The government EPA website states auto body shops do pose a danger of contamination in the air, soil, water, and also a danger to the workers if not in compliance with safety regulations. Please keep this type of business in the proper district. Ms. Newell said the attorney previously stated Mr. Chisholm would work on one to three cars a week; now he stated it as three to four cars a week. He has a four bay garage that is two stories. Yes, there are woods between our houses but it is very much a community. She can see the bicycles as they ride down CR 500 N. Four months out the year the trees are leafed out and the view is obscured; however, in the winter they all see each other as residential houses; not as businesses. The buffer zone between her mother's house and the Chisholm property is her mother's property. Many of the residents chose to live outside the city to enjoy the quiet residential neighborhood and never thought commercial businesses could be allowed so close. If the decision to rezone one lot of many for this family, the integrity of the residential properties will be changed forever. The next owner may not be such a great guy and family man. Please don't set that precedent.

Richard Davis – 7903 W 550 S, Delphi – Mr. Davis said his mother-in-law lives at 4840 Homewood Drive. He presented a picture to the Commissioners of Mr. Chisholm's current business saying the business in the picture does not belong in a residential neighborhood. With the elimination of the cars, there are still four dumpsters. Anyone who has ever worked on a car knows when an engine is pulled there are coolant fluids, oil, fuel, and other possible fluids that pose a potential hazard to ground water and soil.

Margarita Fawn – 4828 Homewood Dr, West Lafayette – Ms. Fawn stated she lives directly behind Mr. Chisholm. She wanted to make a correction from a previous meeting where Mr. Teder indicated the garage that would be used was the two car garage shown in the pictures. The building that will be used for the business is much larger and closer to the creek and her property. Mr. Teder commented that the business will not affect the people in her subdivision because it is located on CR 500 N; however, his building dominates her view. The building is 53 feet long, the impact is enormous and she can still see it in the summer with the leaves – in the winter, that's all she can see. She asked the Commissioners to put themselves in her shoes. Someday, she and her husband want to cash out their house and second lot and move to assisted living. When a buyer comes along and asks what the big building is in her backyard, do you think they will pay top dollar when they find out it is an auto repair shop? She said she is not happy and this has been a learning experience.

Sallie Fahey, Area Plan Director said earlier in the meeting, the buffer distance between Ag zoning and R1 was questioned; there is not a required buffer yard between Ag and R1.

Attorney Teder repeated that the area to the north is zoned agriculture, the area west – 2 ½ acres away is zoned agriculture. The Homewood Subdivision is an attractive subdivision; he does not disagree with that; however, his client is not part of the subdivision. He has no interest in the subdivision; he is totally separate from the subdivision. We spoke with some of the neighbors, not all of the neighbors have signed the petition. There is no impact on the wells in his opinion. We are required to meet all State and County permitting, which they intend to do. There will not be an increase in traffic on CR 500 N with three to four customers per week. The picture of the present business showing the dumpsters has nothing to do with his business; the dumpsters belong to the restaurant. Any trash at the new location will be inside, he has to maintain home occupation rules and he has no doubts the Building Commissioner will enforce those rules. The distance between Mr. Chisholm's buildings and the houses in the subdivision is greater than the distance between houses and neighbors within the subdivision.

Commissioner Byers asked Mr. Chisholm if he had to have a State or County permit to operate the facility, such as EPA or IDEM. Mr. Chisholm said he has to have regular inspections from the Fire Marshall. He inspects the fire equipment, how chemicals are being handled, and plaques to notify people of those chemicals. He does not know how inspections will work in the County as yet. President Knochel asked where the waste products will be disposed. Mr. Chisholm said the waste from the solvents can go in the trash and hauled away. Waste oil and antifreeze is sold; the oil is used in furnaces, the antifreeze is recycled. Any spillage is soaked up with floor dry and goes into the trash.

Chief Deputy Fay recorded the vote.

The balance of the project is in the amount of $23,548.16, bringing the total contract to $4,419,090.92.

UNFINISHED/NEW BUSINESS

Commissioner Murtaugh said the rail service issue has received a lot of coverage by the media. A quote went out for an alternative for service from Amtrak. The preliminary award has been granted to Corridor Capital who submitted a plan to run, market, provide amenities such as business class, Wi-Fi, and a food and beverage car. All those services are currently not offered by Amtrak. Performance standards would be in place to hold them accountable in regard to timeliness. Options were presented to keep service as it is currently with two trains per day or adding transits to the trains, providing shuttles from various places within the cities to the train station. There are several decisions to be made. The current partnership is made up of Beech Grove, Rensselaer, Crawfordsville, Tippecanoe County, and Indianapolis. Indianapolis is possibly looking to pull out when the contract expires; leaving a shortfall. Senator Brant Hershman is working to encourage Indianapolis to stay in. Commissioner Murtaugh said he does not know why Indianapolis is considering not continuing; their contribution to the rail service is a fraction of their overall funding and they have the most to gain. Indianapolis is the key proponent of the counties having the massive transit system, why they would not buy into the rail service to connect them to Chicago for a small amount of money is bizarre. Ironically, ridership has picked up. The performance as far as timeliness has decreased.
