State Emergency Registry of Volunteers for Indiana

What is SERV-IN?

SERV-IN is a statewide electronic registration system of medical and non-medical volunteers who want to assist our public health and healthcare system during an event or disaster. The system is managed locally to register, credential, and alert volunteers. When disaster strikes, you may be asked to volunteer at the local, state, or national level depending on your credentials, interest, and availability.

How do I register for SERV-IN?

The registration process is as simple as logging onto our website and selecting the "Register now" button on the home page. The information asked during registration includes contact information, licensure, credentials, training history, response experience, and skills.

Volunteering in Tippecanoe County

Once registered for SERV-IN, be sure to join the Tippecanoe County Medical Reserve Corps

(TCMRC). (Instructions are located on the back of this pamphlet.)

The Medical Reserve Corps, housed within the Tippecanoe County Health Department, strives to respond to natural and manmade public health emergencies such as tornados, terrorist attacks, and explosion aftermath. Preparation for emergency response includes:

- ◆ Vaccination Clinics
- ◆ Public Health Training and Education and Community Disaster Exercises

The TCMRC is comprised of 137 volunteers as of 2015. We serve a population of over 173,000 residents within our jurisdiction.

Our profile consists of people of various backgrounds, including :

- ◆ Nurses
- ◆ EMS Professionals
- ◆ Non Public Health/Medical Professionals

What Do Volunteers Do?

As a volunteer:

You will gain a chance to serve a rapidly growing county, make a difference in the community, and the knowledge to effectively respond in an emergency incident.

After registering:

You may be asked to participate in disaster related training and exercises to prepare you for your role in the response.

You will agree to be contacted in the event of an emergency or for future training opportunities.

Once notified of an emergency or training opportunity, you are free to decide whether or not to participate.

Registering does NOT obligate you to respond during an emergency.
